ABOUT OUR PARISH

Welcome, New Parishioners and Sunday Visitors:

Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Parish is a canonically open parish of the Archdiocese of Boston, which has a Traditional Latin Mass apostolate. Both the ordinary form of the Roman Rite (1970 Missal) and the extraordinary form (1962 Missal) are celebrated here with the blessing of His Eminence Sean Cardinal O'Malley, Archbishop of Boston. We encourage new parishioners to please register in the parish and to introduce yourselves to the Pastor. We are always glad to welcome Sunday visitors here to our beautiful, historic church. We look forward to your coming again.

Parish Mission Statement

“What then is a parish? It is the smallest section of the one universal flock which has been entrusted to Peter by the Lord.

Under the authority of a responsible priest who has received the care of souls from his bishop, the parish is, within the Church of Jesus Christ, the first community of Christian life; it is a community cut to human dimensions, in which the shepherd can know his flock and the flock can know their shepherd ... At the heart of this area, we find the parish church with its bell-tower, its baptistery, its confessional, its altar and tabernacle, a symbol of unity and the centre of community life.”

(Pope Saint Paul VI, reigned 1964-1978)

Pastor's Note

“CARITAS SUI” AND THE DOCTRINE OF LIFE

St. Bernard of Clairvaux (1090-1153 A.D.) once wrote to Blessed

Pope Eugene III:

If you wish to belong entirely to others, like him who was made all things to all men, then I praise your human feeling, provided only that it extends to all. But how can it extend to all, if it does not include yourself? You too are a man: if your human feeling is to be entire and all-embracing, let the bosom which gathers all men to itself gather your own self also, otherwise, what does it profit you to gain all men, while you lose yourself? Consequently, since all have a claim on you, see to it that you are one of those who exercise that claim...at least from time to time, to restore yourself to yourself.

St. Bernard is getting at an important part of the Second of the two Great Precepts of Charity—the love of God above all things and the love of neighbor as oneself. If we are to love our neighbor as ourselves then that means there is a particular charity which we owe to ourselves. This is what is called “caritas sui”—that is, charity-to-oneself.

This is not to be confused with a selfish, callous egocentricity nor an immoderate pampering of the body. Charity-to-oneself is an important part of the observance of the Fifth Commandment Thou shalt not kill. In the Catechism of the Catholic Church, Section II “Respect for the Dignity of Persons”/Respect for Health we read:

Life and physical health are precious gifts entrusted to us by God. We must take reasonable care of them, taking into account the needs of others and the common good.

Concern for the health of its citizens requires that society help in the attainment of living-conditions that allow them to grow and reach maturity: food and clothing, housing, health care, basic education, employment and social assistance. (PAR 2288)

It is not selfish therefore to pay conscious attention to the requirements of stewardship for our own selves. St. Teresa of Avila (+1582), who reformed her own Carmelite religious order towards a more perfect and austere observance of their Rule, nonetheless observed: “In order to pray well, one must also sleep well and eat well.”

This recognition that our own self too is a kind of “neighbor” deserving of our charity can serve as an important corrective for many distortions which exist in human life.

For example, people can be very hard on themselves in their own thinking. They put themselves down as stupid, bad, always doing the wrong thing, and the like. This is not the fruit of a good examination of conscience and the acquiring of accurate, helpful self-knowledge. It is merely self-bashing. It is uncharitableness.

Likewise, people can mistreat the memory of past versions of themselves, as if anyone can lead a life free of mistakes and not stumble and fall. We can apply here St. Augustine’s famous saying: “Hate the sin, but not the sinner.” We can regret and repent our sins without hating that person we were.

“GRATITUDE IS THE THING THAT BRINGS US THE MOST GRACE...I HAVE LEARNT THIS FROM EXPERIENCE; TRY IT AND YOU WILL SEE. I AM CONTENT WITH WHATEVER GOD GIVES ME, AND I SHOW HIM THIS IN A THOUSAND LITTLE WAYS.”—ST. THERESE OF LISIEUX (+1897)

David Allen

NINETEENTH SUNDAY AFTER PENTECOST

(Missale Romanum 1962)

For our ongoing meditation on the Collects of the Roman Missal, we consider today's Collect for the Nineteenth Sunday after Pentecost in the MR'62. The following translation is taken from the Saint Edmund Campion Missal and Hymnal:

"Almighty and merciful God, in Thy loving kindness do Thou keep us from all things that war against us, that, being unhampered alike in soul and in body, we may with free minds perform the works that are Thine. Through our Lord, etc. Amen."

In today's Epistle (Ephesians 4:23-28), St. Paul tells the Christians in Ephesus, "Be ye renewed in the spirit of your mind" (v. 23). In view of this exhortation to cultivate Christian habits of thought, our Collect likewise focuses our attention on protection from adverse things and the consequent freedom for accomplishing God's will in mind, as well as body.

We must always remember that the Collects assume that those who are praying are baptized people (clergy and laity together). Accordingly, today's Collect reminds us that our principal occupation as baptized Christians is the accomplishment of God's will (not our will, which is naturally inclined to be off target with respect to the good). Since this is a supernatural task, we will always need his divine help and protection, especially because of the continual influence of temptation and concupiscence (cf. Rom. 7-8, Eph. 6).

We do well to note the original Latin words universa adversantia in this Collect may be translated literally as "all adverse things," that is, things that are turned against us (translated above as "all things that war against us"). Such things are not abstract coincidental happenings of fate, but the natural wounds of Original Sin- ignorance and concupiscence (disordered desires). "Adverse things" also refers to specific lies and temptations the devil suggests to us. St Peter calls the devil the "adversary," and so, "adverse things" such as lies are traced back to a personal source, whom Jesus tells us is trying to "steal and kill and destroy" His sheep (cf. 1 Pet. 5:8; Jn 10:10, RSV).

Therefore, our Collect teaches us that renewing our minds (the Epistle) rests principally on praying for divine protection from these things. The consequence of such protection is the condition of being "unhampered in mind and body" so as to conform our lives to His benevolent will. The Latin expediti here may be translated as "freed, detached, or delivered" from adverse things (Stelton's Dictionary of Ecclesiastical Latin). God's protection from foes within and without detaches us from the sinful things that hamper our progress, thereby propelling us in the freedom to do His will.

Having received divine help, then, we must cooperate with grace in laying greater emphasis on thoughts that promote virtue and charity (cf. Phil. 4:8-9). In some cases, it also involves deliberately examining and exposing the underlying falsehoods in our thought patterns. Regular examination of our consciences in private prayer is essential for this. As Jesus clearly teaches us in the Gospel, the sinful thoughts and attitudes we embrace and cultivate are the font of all other sins (cf. Mt. 15:10-20).

In light of all these things, let us turn to the wholesomeness of the Holy Rosary, for it is among the best ways to defend ourselves against temptation, deceit, ignorance, and concupiscence. In the concluding Collect of the Rosary, we ask God "that meditating upon these mysteries...we may imitate what they contain, and obtain what they promise." It is our meditation on the lives of Jesus and Mary that is crucial here (many good prayer books have been written toward this end). Renewing our minds takes shape most fruitfully by continually thinking about Jesus and Mary, because they are entirely sinless and free in the accomplishment of God's will. Such meditation spurs us on to godly imitation, so that we may "obtain what [the mysteries] promise," namely, growth in charity and eternal life.

LATIN MASS PROPERS: NINETEENTH SUNDAY AFTER PENTECOST

INTROIT: Daniel 31. 29, 35 I am the salvation of the people, saith the Lord: in whatever tribulation they shall cry to Me, I will hear them; and I will be their Lord for ever. Ps. 77. 1. Attend, O My people, to My law; incline your ears to the words of My mouth. ℟̄. Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen. — I am the salvation ...

COLLECT Almighty, merciful and forgiving God, remove everything that might hinder us: and thus freed in body and soul, may we with full liberty seek Thy will. Through our Lord Jesus Christ, Thy Son, Who with Thee liveth and reigneth in the unity of the Holy Ghost, God, world without end.

EPISTLE: From the Letter of Blessed Paul the Apostle to the Ephesians, 4. 23-28. Brethren: Be ye renewed in the spirit of your mind, and put on the new man, who according to God is created in justice and holiness of truth. Wherefore putting away lying, speak ye the truth every man with his neighbor, for we are members one of another. Be angry, and sin not. Let not the sun go down upon your anger. Give not place to the devil. He that stole, let him now steal no more; but rather let him labor, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have something to give to him that suffereth need.

GRADUAL: Psalm 140. 2 Let my prayer be directed as incense in Thy sight, O Lord. The lifting up of my hands as evening sacrifice. ALLELUIA: Psalm 104. 1. Alleluia, Alleluia. Give glory to the Lord, and call upon His Name: declare His deeds among the Gentiles. Alleluia.

GOSPEL: Continuation of the holy Gospel according to St. Matthew, 22. 1-14. At that time, Jesus spoke to the chief priests and the pharisees in parables, saying: The Kingdom of heaven is likened to a king, who made a marriage for his son; and he sent his servants, to call them that were invited to the marriage, and they would not come. Again he sent other servants, saying: Tell them that were invited: Behold, I have prepared my dinner; my beeves and fattlings are killed, and all things are ready: come ye to the marriage. But they neglected: and went their ways, one to his farm, and another to his merchandise; and the rest laid hands on his servants, and having treated them contumeliously, put them to death. But when the king had heard of it, he was angry; and sending his armies, he destroyed those murderers, and burnt their city. Then he saith to his servants: The marriage indeed is ready, but they that were invited were not worthy. Go ye therefore into the highways, and as many as you shall find, call to the marriage. And his servants going forth into the ways, gathered together all that they found, both bad and good; and the marriage was filled with guests. And the king went in to see the guests; and he saw there a man who had not on a wedding garment: and he saith to him: Friend, how camest thou in hither not having on a wedding garment? But he was silent. Then the king said to the waiters: Bind his hands and feet, and cast him into the exterior darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. For many are called, but few are chosen.

OFFERTORY: Psalm 137. 7 If I shall walk in the midst of tribulation, Thou wilt quicken me, O Lord; and Thou wilt stretch forth Thy hand against the wrath of mine enemies; and Thy right hand shall save me.

SECRET: Grant, we beseech Thee, O Lord, that these gifts, which we offer in the sight of Thy Majesty, may be for our salvation. Through our Lord ...

COMMUNION: Psalm 118. 4-5 Thou hast commanded Thy commandments to be kept most diligently: O that my ways may be directed to keep Thy justifications.

POSTCOMMUNION: May Thy healing grace, O Lord, mercifully free us from our perverse inclinations, and always make us cleave to Thy commandments. Through our Lord ...
